Aether and Test Batches available Saturday, December 26th at 12 AM Pacific Time.

We know you've been waiting all year and we are thrilled to say she is finally here! Aether will be released on 12.26.2009 at 12 am Pacific Time. It has been a long lesson learning how to make a clear we're willing to put our name on. It's been our biggest challenge yet! Aether is a labor intensive product. She is closely inspected, handled gently, and wrapped up in paper bundles so she is never touched by human hands! All of this extra labor and keeping the price competitive means we cannot afford to discount Aether to resellers, so you will only find her here. She is also available in second quality rods. Jed has also been hard at work cooking up new test batches based the colors you were so fond of in Miami, NE-325 and NE-323. We have seven for you to try; CL-361, CL-360, CL-359, KA-357, KA-356, CE-352 and CE-352 G. There will be a few other test batches plus an Aurae odd lot for you to try out as well. These will all be available on Saturday, Dec. 26th at 12 am Pacific time.

New Resources

We have two new resources that we hope will help you in your glassmaking endeavors. We have a new online Attic where you can visit previously released test batches and colors that are out of production. These colors are no longer available but are displayed for your reference. The more positive feedback we get on a color, the sooner we start testing it again. If there's one you want us to bring back, be sure to rate it or review it. We also have a new article available for you in

The School called One Manufacturer's Perspective on Compatibility. We hope you will take the time to read it especially before purchasing Aether. We know compatibility issues have been on lampworkers' minds in recent months and we want you to know what you can expect from us.

Closed 12.22.2009 - 12.27.2009

The shop will be closed from Tuesday, December 22nd to Sunday, December 27th. Jed and I will be enjoying a short staycation with our two kids and our new puppy, Kanga! He's a 15 week old Whippet and our very first family dog. We are having tons of fun getting to know him and figuring out how to take care of a puppy! We hope you and your loved ones are having a wonderful season and as always send you our gratitude for supporting us in this rewarding (and challenging) work!

Thank you, Jed and Julie Hannay
