In with the Old, out with the New!

Hand Pulled Terra is IN

Thanks to feedback from our customers, we began to suspect that pulling Terra by hand was as essential as stabilizing the formula. When the glass is pulled by hand, a hot punty is dipped into the furnace, the glass is marvered, reheated in a glory hole, and the process is repeated until we have a big enough gather to pull across the shop. All that super heating and chilling builds up layers of pre-struck glass creating multiple rings at the core and a rainbow of opaque rods. So this year, we're going retro, firing up the glory hole and bringing you Hand Pulled Terra! The first two batches are available now and we'll keep making more until you've had enough.

For those of you that want to go even further back, Olympia Rain is back in stock!

2011 Test Batches are on Sale!

We need to get the 2011 test batches out to make room for 2012 testing. All 2011 test batches still in stock are discounted 25%!

New Murrini are also available.

Mostly stars with a few flowers and a heart or two.

Thanks!
Jed and Julie
